

6 EASY WAYS TO BRING SOME MUCH-NEEDED COMIC RELIEF TO THE WORKPLACE.

Things are weird right now. Boost morale and ease tension with the healing power of laughter. We could all use more of it in our lives - now more than ever!

1. Laugh of the Day

Kick off meetings with a "Laugh of the Day." A funny quote, story, or joke. Employees could take turns sharing their favorite joke. Just be sure to mention any content restrictions in advance to avoid a visit to HR!

5. LOL for Realz

It sounds weird, but you'll see for yourself that laughter really is contagious. Have one person start by laughing loudly - fake it til you make it. Trust the process. It won't be long before the whole group will erupt with genuine laughter!

2. Bring on the Dad Jokes!

Embrace the cheesiness! Kick it up a notch with a little friendly competition with a "Dad Joke-A-Thon." Jokes with the most "groans" win a prize! Employees vote for their favorite - or in this case, their LEAST favorite!

6. Host a Virtual Comedy Show

What better way to create laughter than with a LIVE stand-up comedy, now from the comfort of your own home?

Beerly Funny will tailor a custom, virtual stand-up comedy show for your audience. Flexible packages available.

At Beerly Funny we have three goals:

1. Create moments of joy and laughter
2. Support local businesses
3. Elevate comedy as an art form.

3. Does This Look Funny to You?

Keep the hilarity going with a funny meme exchange. You could even pick a theme per day or week, etc. And may the best meme win!

Theme ideas: TV shows, Disney characters, pop culture, TGIF, etc.

Bonus Idea: Gratitude Goes a Long Way

Invite employees to share what they're grateful for. Shifting from a place of worry to gratitude will help lift anyone's spirits.

Pro Tip: Engage the "influencers" (aka the unofficial leaders - those employees their peers look up to and follow) early on to help build traction.

4. Did Someone Say "Online Happy Hour"?

Unwind with a virtual "happy hour" at the end of the work day. Alcohol is optional, laughter is encouraged, and no one needs to worry about the bar tab.
